

AFTER COAL VEINS AT ARMBRUST.

Westmoreland County People Will Soon Make Searching Test.

A MEETING THIS AFTERNOON

Claimed That There Are Three Veins, Between 4,000 and 5,000 Acres In Tract, To Be Guarded During The Testing.

ARMBRUST, Feb. 13.—This part of Westmoreland county is excited over the proposition to test for coal and this afternoon at 2 o'clock the land owners comprising the Sewickley Development Company will meet at the home of Treasurer J. W. Armbrust and discuss plans for the further development of the coal veins underlying their various properties.

Last week a number of the representative land owners of Armbrust met and formed an organization to be known as the Sewickley Development Company for the purpose of ascertaining the extent of the coal veins under their ownership—the number of veins, depth of each, separate vein and the distance from the surface to the coal strata.

The following farms are represented in the organization: Marion Evans, Evans, Sonicles, McCoy, Clyde Moore, Hulls, Belknap, Gengaware, Armbrust, Trout, Overly, Fulton and a number of others with smaller tracts. Robert Evans was elected President; J. N. Johnston, Secretary, and J. W. Armbrust, Treasurer.

Under most of the properties lies three veins of coal, the Upper and Lower Freopert and the Kettanning vein, said to be 11 feet thick. The Connellsville vein crops out further up the valley. Tests will be made just as soon as the company can have them made to determine how far from the surface the coal lies and the exact depth of each vein. None but those owning property and a member of the company will know anything of the figures obtained by the drill. A strong guard will be on watch from the time the drilling begins until it is finished. They expect to go about 150 feet to find the first "pay."

The farmers are determined to know whether they have coal and how much of the precious stuff they control so as to talk intelligently to the operator when they put their coal on the market. Between 4,000 and 5,000 acres are in this new coal tract.

FOLLIES OF NEW YORK NOW IN CONNELLSVILLE

Lively Musical Attraction at the Sols-son Theatre this Afternoon and Evening—A Good Show.

A good musical comedy, "The Follies of New York" is at the Solsson this afternoon and evening, one which has received favorable mention in the various towns it has played. Last night the show made a hit at Uniontown.

The impression exists that the "Follies of New York" is a burlesque but this is incorrect. It is a lively, tuneful musical comedy. There is good music and lots of it as well as the impersonations of the leading Broadway stars are excellent.

One feature of the "Follies of New York" which will appeal to local playgoers will be Miss Cecilia Weston's imitation of Eva Tanguay. Practically everyone has heard Eva Tanguay sing "I Don't Care," but the Grafton Sentinel is authority for the statement that she never sang it as well as Miss Weston does in her imitation of the gingery musical comedy star.

There is a clever travesty on "The Devil" which will appeal to those who have seen Franz Mohr's play. Speaking of the play, the Grafton Sentinel says, in part:

"The Follies of New York" were a disappointment to those who did not attend, as the musical comedy was one of the very best that has appeared to Grafton for many months. The people were expecting nothing and got everything. They looked for a lemon and got a basket of fruit instead."

Manager Fred Robbins himself admits being surprised over the show as he has not expected much of it. That the play possesses merit, however, is shown in the many favorable comment of the towns where it has played.

THE CONSTIPATION EVIL.
Is Responsible For Most Cases of Piles.

Constipation paralyzes the blood vessels of the lower bowel, and often causes piles. Women, and all other indoor workers, are the most frequent sufferers. But, curing constipation alone won't cure piles. A special medicine is needed—internal treatment, to strengthen the fabby veins and start pure blood circulating.

Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid is the only internal pile cure. Sold under guarantee. $1.40. A. A. Clarke's, or Dr. Leonhardt Co., Station B, Buffalo, N. Y. Write for booklet.

THE POISONOUS OUTPOURINGS OF SECTIONAL DISTRUST.

The opponents of consolidation have some emissaries abroad among the New Haven people telling them of the struggle the residents of a certain recently admitted section of the South Side had in getting public sewerage, and insinuating that the New Haven people will experience similar trouble in getting any improvements at the hands of Greater Connellsville's authorities.

The statement and the institution are both baseless. The South Side citizens got their sewerage with reasonable promptitude and in that respect have nothing to complain of. The borough was in straitened circumstances at the time of their application, and they agreed to advance the cost of the improvement. There was some halting and hesitation about the repayment of this advancement, but it was due to the fact that a majority of the present Town Council were not familiar with the transaction and desired time to fully inform themselves concerning the justice of the claim. It is also a fact that the claim having been properly established, it was promptly paid.

THE CAUSE IS WEAK WHICH MUST BE BOLSTERED UP BY SUCH DISCERNIBLE DECEIT.

One of the chief aims of the Opposition is to implant in the breasts of the New Haven voters the "SEEDS OF DISTRUST"; to foster the feeling that the citizens of Connellsville want to ANNEC AND ENSLAVE the citizens of New Haven; that they want to DESPOIL AND ROB them of their inheritance; that, in short, CONSOLIDATION IS A CONFIDENCE GAME in which New Haven taxpayers are being played for suckers.

THE GENERAL CHARACTER OF THE CITIZENS OF BOTH CONNELLSVILLE AND NEW HAVEN WHO ARE HEARTILY SUPPORTING THIS MOVEMENT GIVES THE LIE TO THESE ASSUMPTIONS. In the ranks of the Pro-Consolidationists are to be found the most public-spirited and progressive citizens of the two towns, men incapable of supporting any public movement which was not for the public benefit. The very fact that these supporters of the Consolidation proposition are found on both sides of the river is strong if not sufficient evidence that it contains nothing but THE SQUARE DEAL FOR BOTH TOWNS.

The poisonous outpourings of sectional distrust and hatred by selfish political and personal interests will deceive no New Haven citizen of probity and public spirit. THE ESTABLISHMENT OF GREATER CONNELLSVILLE WILL MAKE THE PROPOSED SIXTH AND SEVENTH WARDS JUST AS MUCH A PART OF THE MUNICIPAL FAMILY, ENTITLED TO JUST AS MUCH AUTHORITY, AND DESTINED TO JUST AS MUCH CONSIDERATION, AS ANY ON THIS SIDE OF THE YOUTH.

As has been clearly shown by some of the leading New Haven citizens themselves, CONSOLIDATION WILL BE OF RELATIVELY GREATER BENEFIT TO NEW HAVEN THAN IT WILL BE TO CONNELLSVILLE; yet we feel on this side that it will be of great benefit to Connellsville.

CONSOLIDATION IS A PUBLIC MOVEMENT primarily for the PUBLIC GOOD and incidentally for the PRIVATE BENEFIT of every good citizen. Every good citizen should, therefore, give it undivided and active support.

THE MERCHANTS' LINCOLN DAY DINNER.

The orators at the Lincoln Day dinner of the Connellsville and New Haven Merchants' Association spoke eloquently of the martyred President, but earnestly of some local topics, namely, Conservation and Canalization. Had they added Consolidation, the list would have been complete.

Chief Hydrographer Leighton of the Geological Survey, who is presumed to know as much if not more than any other man in the country about the waters of the country, was peculiarly fitted to speak of them. He advocated conservation in water as well as in coal and other natural resources of the nation; he deplored the criminal waste which crude methods of development had entailed, and fittingly asked, "Shall this Nation become the Lazarus at the Rich Man's Gate?"

He denounced the present patchwork policy of improving the rivers of the country, and declared that if Connellsville might even now hear the whistle of the steamboats on the canalized Yough, he quoted from Lincoln's speeches in Congress to show that he was an ardent advocate of waterways improvement. Why he was not so as President we all know. All the revenues of the torn and distract ed nation were expended in making rivers of blood which ran crimson the country over.

Judge Umel spoke with sustained eloquence on the greatness of the nation a great President has preserved; and his comparisons of its extent, its resources, its development and its progress were such as would have made a heart of stone thrill with pride; but they also gave thoughtful people cause to ponder over the possibilities, without conservation of the United States some day playing the part of Lazarus.

Editor North carried the printing press from Connellsville to China and back again, and gave some excellent and unanswerable reasons why it also should have its share of conservation.

The meeting was emphatically patriotic, intensely practical and thoroughly enjoyable.

EFFECTS OF CONSOLIDATION
ON RENTS AND REAL ESTATE.

One of the stock arguments of the Anti-Progressives is that Consolidation will so enhance the values of New Haven real estate that the owners of tenement properties will have to advance rents, and that, therefore, tenants will consult their own interests by opposing Consolidation.

It is not quite possible but likewise extremely probable that Consolidation will enhance the values of New Haven realty; but it by no means follows that the owners will increase rents. Rents are not necessarily based on the value of real estate, especially that value which is known as the Unearned Increment; that is to say, the enhancement which circumstances brings about without any further effort or investment on the part of the owners.

Rents are regulated, more particularly by the inevitable law of supply and demand. There is lots of property in Connellsville today that is not realizing its owners three per centum on its value simply because the owners did not get higher rents.

Consolidation, we repeat, will have no effect on rents since water has on a duck's back.

Candidate Buttermore's claims, that he is "without entangling alliances," that he is a Big Man, with the country behind him, and that his policies have not been adopted by any Democratic faction, have been challenged. He will have to show the people of Connellsville that he is "pledged to no special favor or reward" and none in the White Ward. The insinuations contained in his statements, which are intended to reflect upon his opponent, may recoil upon his own head. Candidate Evans, on the other hand, can, for himself, not be called Buttermore has said, and with good conscience.

Industry has adopted the waiting policy.

If the Constitutional amendment abolishing February elections is passed this will be the last one held. The only ones who will be sorry are the Undesirables who are out for the Usual.

Whether but one election each year will make politics less expensive remains to be seen, but the experiment is worth a trial.

NEWS OF A DAY
IN SCOTTDALE.New Fire Alarm Responded Favorably to the Test Made.

HAS A HAIR RAISING SCREAM

Lincoln Birthday Celebrated By the Schools, With Great Crowds of Visitors—Benjamin Boyer's Funeral
Monday Afternoon.SCOTTDALE, Feb. 13.—The testing of the new fire whistle yesterday between the hours of 12 and 1 o'clock was a very satisfactory one. The new fire alarm, through the kindness of Superintendent W. D. Everhart of the Scottdale Furnace Company, has been placed on the main steam pipe of the furnace where about 150 pounds of pressure can be given the siren.J. E. Tidman of the U. S. Cast Iron Pipe & Foundry Company was also helpful in putting the whistle up, giving chains for its operation. The whistle yesterday was under the management of Secretary G. E. Brown of the Fire Department and Assistant Chief John Stetson who timed the blowing of the number of the plugs which was very clear and sharp cut.The firemen are somewhat glorified over the fact that Scottdale has possessed a fire alarm whistle before their sister town of Connellsville, and that, in fact, this is the second alarm whistle which Scottdale has had placed. It is alleged that the whistle was heard in Donegal, Laurenville has not reported. Neither has Chaintown or Beersheba.

idence on Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock, with burial at the Scottdale Cemetery. The veteran farmer, who was widely known and liked by all who knew him, was aged 74 years,
and his death came through a stroke of apoplexy. He is survived by the following children: Mrs. David Wright and Nelson Boyer, who live near the homestead; Miss Sadie Boyer of Mt. Pleasant; Abram of Scotdale, and Jacob, Lydia and Nannie at home.

Benjamin Smith Orchestra will give a dance at the Ellsworth Park auditorium on Tuesday evening, February 16.
The dancing will be from 8 to 12. Don Smith is the popular and capable musical director at the Vaudeville and at the head of an excellent orchestra, so that the dance is booked to be a pleasuring one.

Building a New Residence.

Joseph N. Thompson, a former resident of Scottdale, was in town yesterday visiting friends. Mr. Thompson who is now in the contracting business at Uniontown has taken the contract for the building of a fine
eight room dwelling house here.

Mr. Warnock Improving.

Walter G. Cope has received word from his brother-in-law, Charles J.
Warnock who went to Arizona for his health several weeks ago, that the latter is getting along nicely and it is believed he is improving in health. Mr.
Warnock has for a long time an important factor in the development of the coca region here, and then went to West Virginia, where he health failed him.

three days.

Some Real Estate Deals.

Among real estate deals shown by the records at Connellsville this week
are the following of interest: Here:

T. S. Mellon, for $3,500; November 17, 1905; Thomas S. Mellon, land in Unity township, to N. P. Yethers, for $5,400, January 20, 1909; John W.
Dorman, land in East Huntingdon township to William A. Jones, for Celebrated Lincoln Day.

Friday the centenary of Abraham Lincoln was celebrated by elaborate programs in the Scottdale schools during the afternoon, and a great throng of visitors enjoyed the exciting. The school rooms were handsomely decorated, some of them with much sentiment pertaining to the occasion. The Manual Training rooms and those of the Domestic Science were also on the program, and were visited by many interested patrons.

Still in the Running.

W. C. Jones candidate for Burgess
on the Socialist ticket and S. M. May, candidate for Tax Collector, are today denying the rumor that they had withdrawn from the ticket.
"We're going to stay on the ticket,
they announced today, "if we only get one vote."

Wholesale Measures.

There was a wholesale massacre of roaches and other crawling creatures in the cell department of the police station yesterday afternoon. The police used squirrel guns and bug juice in their war of extermination.

TO THE TAXPAYERS AND VOTERS OF DUNBAR TOWNSHIP.

Having been nominated by the Republicans as a candidate for Tax Collector, I feel it is my duty to satisfy you as to my qualifications for this, the most important office in the township. I have made an earnest canvass of the entire township and endeavored to meet all the people but control have prevented my doing so. To all such I wish to state that if I am once in which every tax payer is personally interested, I wish to make this statement that neither township or tax payer has, anything to lose by my election. Having done the best I could with the means and time at my command, I respectfully place the matter in the hands of the voters. I also ask for a fair and honest election.

I want to say in conclusion that I have had many years experience in keeping books and in this line feel confident that I can perform the duties in a satisfactory manner.

Gentlemen I am ready for your decision.

Respectfully yours

A GENTLEMAN FROM MISSISSIPPI

By THOMAS A. WISE

Novelized From the Play by Frederick R. Toombs

COPYRIGHT, 1908, BY THOMAS A. WISE

"Very well," he said. "You are too small to assist. I'll find out for myself. Now you go to your sister and wait there until I send for you. I may be alone with my children."

When Haines and Haskins had left them, Langdon turned sadly to the two children who had disgraced him.

"Can you understand?" he said. "Do you know what you've done to me?"

"What, father? We've done nothing wrong?" protested Carolina.

"They told me it was perfectly legitimate," argued Randolph. "They said everybody—Peabody and Stevens and the rest—were in it, and Peabody is the boss of the senate."

"Yes, my boy," assented the old planter, "he's the leader in the senate, and that's the shameful part of all this—that a man of his high standing should set you so miserably in example."

Randolph Langdon was not a vicious lad, not a youth who preferred or chose wrongdoing for the increased rewards it offered. He was at heart a chivalrous, straightforward, truthful southern boy who believed in the splendid traditions of his family and loved his father as a son should a parent having the qualities of the old hero of Crawfordville. Jealous of his honor, he had been a victim of Nocton's wife because of the congressman's position and power, because this companion of his young days had won his confidence and had not hesitated to distract the lad's idea of what was right and what was wrong.

Randolph began an indignant protest against his father's request when the senator got up about him.

"Don't you see?" said the mother. "I can understand there being racists in the outside world and that they should believe your career, foolish old father, lawful game, but that he should be thought a tool for dishonest thieving by members of his own family is incomprehensible."

"Randolph, my son, Carolina, my daughter, through all their generations, the Langdons have been honorable. Your mother was a Randolph, and this, from you! Oh, Carolina! And you, Randolph! How could you? How could you betray or seek to betray your father, who sees in you the image of your dear mother, who has gone?"

CHAPTER XII.

THE CALL TO ARMS.

BOTH Randolph and Carolina were deeply affected by their father's words.

The daughter attempted to take on herself the blame for her brother's action.

"I was the older one. I might have stopped him if I had wished not should bear the burden."

"No, no, father," exclaimed the youth, his inherent self reliance prompting him to shoulder the consequences of his own mistakes. "I, and I alone, am responsible for what I did. I did not realize that it was wrong. I will not hide behind Carolina."

Carolina Langdon bore herself better than was to have been expected under the strain of the painful interview. She saw more clearly now how she had erred. She was undergoing an inward revolution that would make it impossible for her ever again to recede so far from the line of duty to her father, her family and to herself.

When Randolph had finished Carolina took up her own defense and eloquently she pleaded the defense of many a woman who yearns for what she has not got, for what may be beyond her reach—the defense of the woman who chafes under the limitations of worldly position, of sex and of opportunity. It was the defense of an ambitious woman.

"Perhaps I ought to have been a man of the Langdon family," she exclaimed. "Father, oh, can't you understand that I couldn't do my best away down on those plantations? You don't know what ambition is. I had to have the world. I had to have money. If I had been a man I would have tried big financial enterprises. I should have liked to fight for a fortune. You wouldn't have condemned me then. You might have said my methods were bold, but if I succeeded I would have been a great man. But just because I am a woman you think I must sit home with my knitting. No, father, the world does move. Women must have an equal chance with men, but I wish I had been a man!"

"Even then I hope you would have been a gentleman," rebuked her father sternly. "Women should have an equal chance, Carolina. They should have an equal chance for the same virtues as men, not for the same vices."

"But an equal chance," retorted the girl fervently. "There, father, you have admitted what I have tried to prove. The woman with the spirit of a man, the spirit that craves a woman, 'advice,' 'theorizing,' 'Be something,' 'Strike for yourself,' cannot sit idly by while all the world moves on. If it is true that I have chosen the wrong means, the wrong way, to better my lot, I did it through ignorance, and that ignorance is the fruit of the times in which I live, of the system that guides the era in which I live."

"I am what the world calls 'educated,' but the world, the world of men, knows better. It laughs at me. It has cheated me because I am a woman. The world of men has forced me in, and I abhorred me with conviction, with

"Women must have an equal chance."

"You're switching to Gulf City?" demanded Peabody.

"I'm considering Gulf City," agreed Langdon.

Peabody brought down his fist on the table.

"It's too late to consider anything," Langdon, he cried. "We're committed to Altacooa, and Altacooa it is. I don't care what you heard of Gulf City. Now, I'd like to settle this thing in a friendly manner, Langdon. I like always for every member of the senate to have his share of the power and the patronage. We've been glad to put you forward in this naval base matter. We appreciate the straightforwardness, the honesty of your character. You look well. You're the kind of politician the public thinks it wants nowadays, but you've been in the senate long enough to know that 'bills have' to pass, and you know you can't get through anything without my friends, and I tell you now I'll throttle any Gulf City plan you bring up."

"Then if you are as sure of that you can't object to my being for Gulf City," said Langdon.

"THE GIRLS" A DELIGHTFUL PLAY.

First Act Was a Little Suggestive But Not Offensive.

A PRETTY STORY INTERWOVEN

Comedy Had Many Delightful Features To It And Was Greatly Enjoyed By a Fair-sized Audience. Play Writer's Cleverness Displayed.

"When a man-hater and a woman-hater get together, it's like a 'Nelson' trip."

"That's what Clyde Fitch said when he was rattling on 'The Girls' but he evidently had an inside view of all the scenes, that surround womankind from the time they get up in the morning until they retire in the evening, and after, too."

"The 'Girls' was presented at the Solison theatre last night. The audience was not as large as it would have been had there not been many other amusements and contrivances of attraction on account of Lincoln's birthday, but there was a most representative crowd there anyhow, and everyone said it was 'fine.'

"They saw the girls combing their hair over the chocolate stew, and hanging their stockings on the chipping dish handle, and wiggling their toes, but by no means was this the 'flaunt' part of the performance, although Unkentown seemed to revel in this bit of sport which by the way was a very tame affair."

"When it comes right down to play writing it takes the master hand and although Clyde Fitch in this play has done it with a very risky, or we should say to be very 'fashionable' 'flaunt' act, he has clutched it with delicate lines and such fine description that while he looks over the edge in the first act for his foundation the audience must take the first step into the sea of suggestiveness, he has made it real enough to subdue many things, but the suppression is left entirely with the individual, and not a line of the toys on the stage jarred it, although young women go to jar it, in front of the audience, and a young man racing away from an insult but uninformed husband breaks in upon them. Not very attractive bare feet are displayed in the comedy, and night gowns and kimonos are in evidence, but praise all that is good now of the stage dresses of the director, looped up and spanned, no shape and no sense gowns of the modern civilization are in evidence, making one feel that everything is about ready to fall off, and giving no idea whether a woman is fat or lean, or padded or natural."

"While it takes a long time to present the 'Girls' something like three hours one can well afford to sit through the first act, talkative and uninteresting as it is, although it might appeal to the burlesque devotees, who always expect something that does not happen." The first act is only similar to watery soup with a few relishes placed about it, while the after part is like a good dinner.

"It has its frivolous moments, and its tiresome ones, too, just like the dash that does not please." But the master hand of the play builder has woven into his play the heart interest that makes it pretty, even if he has endeavored to make the story long enough to endure three hours.

He has woven the love story of a man for a woman and a woman for a man about his tale, and the story never grows old. To watch the applause on this clock has stopped. In stopping work this clock is showing far greater respect to Lincoln's memory than this clock near the noon hour said:

"That clock, after counting the time without interruption ever since this body has been in session, has stopped at 11 o'clock. One hundred years ago Abraham Lincoln was born, at history runs, at the exact minute at which this clock has stopped. In stopping work this clock is showing far greater respect to Lincoln's memory than this body. I move that we adjourn until tomorrow morning."

The motion carried without a dissenting voice.

REBUKED BY CLOCK

Oklahoma Legislature Started Into Hurried Adjournment.

Ottumwa, Okla., Feb. 13.—A remarkable incident started the lower house of the Oklahoma legislature into adjournment. Pointing to the large electric clock on the wall Representative Jones from the noon hour said:

"That clock, after counting the time without interruption ever since this body has been in session, has stopped at 11 o'clock. One hundred years ago

Abraham Lincoln was born, at history runs, at the exact minute at which this clock has stopped. In stopping work this clock is showing far greater respect to Lincoln's memory than this body. I move that we adjourn until tomorrow morning."

The motion carried without a dissenting voice.

TWO MURDERERS CAUGHT

Philippine Constabulary Sustained After Long Chase.

Manila, Feb. 13.—After months of tracking through mountains and dense forests in the interior of the Island of Negros a force of constabulary has captured two of the murderers of H. D. Everett, assistant director of the Bureau of Forestry of the Philippines, and C. T. Wakeley, another forester, who were killed by natives while surveying last June.

As an example to other filthmen the government has kept up a relentless pursuit since the day the two Americans were murdered. Pursuit will be continued until the entire band has been hunted down.

It is quite easy for anyone to write a risky story, but, home, but Clyde Fitch could turn a burlesque into a pastoral scene of beauty and send an audience away from a theatre after seeing the "Girls" with the unvarnished statement that not an uninteresting word had been uttered. It is hard to address a woman in front of a crowded playhouse and put her to a crowd without her making love in his ungrateful but effective way. And then there follows a time when all is love and when even jealousy crops out.

There's a pretty part in the play and it is over so sweet, too, when one of the man-haters, the weakest, gives over to the poor old clerk who for ten years has hated and forgotten about a home and who makes love in his ungrateful but effective way. And then there follows a time when all is love and when even jealousy crops out.

TAFTS EN ROUTE TO CINCINNATI.Splendid Banquet Climax of
New Orleans
Visit.

HAS TELEGRAM FROM KNOX

In Which Pennsylvanian Put Cabinet
Complication Up to President-Elect.
Letter Respects by Expressing Hope That Congress Will Remove Disability.New Orleans, Feb. 13.—President-elect and Mrs. William H. Taft left here at 9:30 this morning for their home city, Cincinnati, after two days of entertainment at the hands of persons whose hospitality is described the world over in the superlative degree.The entertainment feature last night was a Creole-banquet, where the fattened oysters, the savouriness of the cuisine, with its hundreds of years of perfection and reputation, blended with the hoisted words of compliment and oratory, music and floral tribute into a scene of animation and vivacity,
tempered with respect and dignity.
Mr. Taft was toasted by the governor,
the mayor, by citizens of prominence and speakers of reputation. A feeling invocation was pronounced by Cardinal Gibbons, who is in the city visiting his brother.Mr. Taft responded in the spirit of the occasion. He talked of his desire as the chief executive to represent the whole nation, of his intention to make the representatives of the administration in the south represent the best element of the communities in which they lived; of his recent visit to the Islemaus of Panama, with a repetition of his hope for the completion of the canal within his administration.The telegraphic correspondence between Mr. Taft and Senator Knox is regarded as making it clear that the disposition of congress to remove any constitutional obstacles in the way of the appointment to a cabinet position of the Pennsylvania senator is most desirable.Senator Knox wired Judge Taft as follows:"A bill has been introduced in the Senate to remove the constitutional bar to my eligibility to the cabinet by repealing the act providing for an increase in salary for the secretary of state.
I am in no way promoting or having anything to do with the measure."It is a matter for you as the appointive power to first determine whether the proposed action is desirable or would be effective. Our minds should be free from all doubt concerning the legality and propriety of the proposed plan before acquiescing in it.
If you have any reason for not approving what is being done it should be announced. Otherwise an injustice may be done whover may be appointed."Judge Taft sent in reply the following:"I sincerely hope that the bill repealing the increase in salary for the secretary of state will pass. I have no doubt that that will remove all the difficulties of the situation in the light of its purpose. I should regard your inability at this time as a great public misfortune, and it would be a personal disappointment to me too great for me to express."I have telegraphed Senator Hale, Speaker Cannon and Mr. Payne of my wishes and hopes in this regard."

THE PEOPLE'S CANDIDATE.

JOHN LEWIS EVANS.

The Democratic Connellsville News is just partially Democratic. It is supporting a part of the ticket only.

It is, however, very much in favor of James W. Buttermore for Burgess. Speaking of him, The News says:

There is logic in the James W. Buttermore statement, which is that where one is, there is a manly statement and one that should meet with the approval of all good thinking citizens.

It is true that Connellsville is growing big and that it needs in the legislative chair a man such as is described in the accompanying article. If James W. Buttermore measures up to those requirements and he deserves the use of the ballot, then he should be supported.

Will he have the courage or the inclination to be a Burgess to withstand their demands?

Is his statement logical or deceptive, faithful or political?

Is he free from cliques and state-making caucuses merely because he has no opposition for the nomination?

On the other hand, is it not a fact that all which has been said for him can be said with more truth about his Republican opponent, John Louis Evans?

Candidate Evans has been the candidate of no clique or faction. He won his nomination in a triangular fight which was open and unabated.

He is broad-gauged; he is without any entangling alliances; he is tied to no clique, nor has he ever been identified with men and methods of dimmed political reputations; he is honest, capable and faithful.

Connellsville does not need a Democratic Burgess; it needs a man of broad gauge, not physically, but mentally; one who will be a representative of all the people, pledged to no special interests; and the Republicans furnish that man. There's no need of Republicans going outside of their own ticket to find a proper candidate for Burgess.—Adv.

In view of this statement and the assurance of the "Unofficial Organ," these questions are pertinent:

"What are Candidate Buttermore's alliances in politics, and are they not entangling?

Is Candidate Buttermore not the candidate of the old Democratic ring which ran the town roughshod for a number of years?

Will he have the courage or the inclination to be a Burgess to withstand their demands?

Is his statement logical or deceptive, faithful or political?
